From their studios in London and Edinburgh JTP undertake placemaking projects at every scale, from cities and towns, to neighbourhoods, streets and the design of individual buildings; creating new places and breathing life into old ones.

JTP approach all their projects through a process of understanding, engaging and creating, which together they call 'Collaborative Placemaking'.

Following an initial discussion, and a Barco ClickShare demo, Carillion undertook a site review of their existing office space and newly acquired locations including a listed building in London's docklands.

The project had to unify communications using latest technologies, maximise efficiency in the meeting spaces with open collaboration and content sharing for teams anywhere.

Key installations included:

- Wall mounted large format display presentation
- Presentation audio from display speakers
- Web conferencing via Logitech mic/speaker/camera
- Web conferencing USB Mic, PTZ camera
- Wall mounted array microphones
- Control via intuitive button wall keypad

Ensuring successful technology adoption

As part of the successful completion of the spaces Carillion provided training sessions at the new offices.

This has seen the meeting rooms used extensively. The initial opening was a success with the HUB spaced filled to capacity.
